

Esther Craven is a third year student at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, TX, double majoring in Music Therapy and Psychology with an emphasis in voice. Her interest in music therapy began five years ago while visiting nursing homes with her youth choir, and has since considered it the second love of her life and her calling. She's currently the Secretary of the Student Association of Music Therapy at her school as well as the Treasurer for Eta Iota Sigma, the Christian sorority on SMU's campus. This summer she joined other music therapy students for a music therapy service project in the rural areas of Jamaica.
